Uniting Church Family Allowance - 2010

To assist families electing to send their children to single sex schools within the Uniting Church, a family discount will be made available again in 2010.

Where families have children attending Prince Alfred College and either Annesley College or Seymour College, a family allowance will be provided by each School. This allowance will comprise of a 5% discount on tuition fees only and will be granted for the eldest family member at each School who does not currently qualify for a sibling rebate. The family allowance will not apply if either of the eligible students in your family is in receipt of a scholarship or other form of fee remission.

Parents of children currently qualifying for this allowance should note that their eligibility will automatically continue into 2010, thus there is no need to lodge a new application form. Please note also that eligibility for this allowance will cease at the end of 2010 should one of your children complete studies at one of the above Colleges (e.g. completion of Year 12 in 2010) unless the allowance can be passed to a younger sibling still at that school. If this is the case a new application will need to be submitted.

Parents wishing to avail themselves of this discount are asked to apply to the Finance Officer at Prince Alfred College providing the information specified on the form below. In order to qualify for this allowance for the full 2010 school year, applications need to be lodged by Monday 18 January 2010. The family allowance applicable to your son will be credited to your account in three instalments, in February, May and August, in the same way that tuition fees are currently billed.

N.B. If an application has been lodged with Annesley College or Seymour College there is no need to make a separate application to PAC.
